To the Board of Troy Capital Resource Corporation

We have audited the financial statements of Troy Capital Resource Corporation (the "Corporation") for the year ended December 31, 2023. Professional standards require that we provide you with information about our responsibilities under generally accepted auditing standards and Government Auditing Standards, as well as certain information related to the planned scope and timing of our audit. We have communicated such information in our letter to you dated January 9, 2024. Professional standards also require that we communicate to you the following information related to our audit.

Significant Audit Matters

Qualitative Aspects of Accounting Practices

Management is responsible for the selection and use of appropriate accounting policies. The significant accounting policies used by the Corporation are described in Note A to the financial statements. As described in Note A to the financial statements, the Agency adopted the following Governmental Accounting Standards Board (GASB) statements in 2023:

- GASB Statement No. 94 – Public-Private and Public-Public Partnerships and Availability Payment Arrangements (GASB 94): The Standard was adopted on a retrospective basis as of the beginning of the earliest period presented. The adoption did not result in any reclassifications or restatements of changes in net position or net position.
- GASB Statement No. 96 – Subscription-Based Information Technology Arrangements (SBITA) (GASB 96): The Standard was adopted on a retrospective basis as of the beginning of the earliest period presented. The adoption did not result in any reclassifications or restatements of changes in net position or net position.
- Portions of GASB No. 99 – Omnibus 2022 (GASB 99) – The requirements of the standard that were effective upon issuance and the requirements that were effective for all fiscal years beginning after June 15, 2022 were adopted in the current year. These portions of the standards were adopted on a retrospective basis as of the beginning of the earliest period presented. The adoption did not result in any reclassifications or restatements of changes in net position or net position.

Accounting estimates are an integral part of the financial statements prepared by management and are based on management's knowledge and experience about past and current events and assumptions about future events. Certain accounting estimates are particularly sensitive because of their significance to the financial statements and because of the possibility that future events affecting them may differ significantly from those expected. The most sensitive estimate affecting the Corporation's financial statements was management's estimate of the collectability of the working capital loan with the Troy Local Development Corporation (TLDC).

- Management's estimate of the collectability of the working capital loan relies on the sale of the TLDC's land held for development at the King Fuels site. Management estimates that this receivable is current.

The financial statement disclosures are neutral, consistent, and clear.

Difficulties Encountered in Performing the Audit

We encountered no significant difficulties in dealing with management in performing and completing our audit.

Corrected and Uncorrected Misstatements

Professional standards require us to accumulate all known and likely misstatements identified during the audit, other than those that are clearly trivial, and communicate them to the appropriate level of management. The following material misstatements detected as a result of audit procedures were corrected by management.

- An adjustment to record an accrual for unbilled legal fees.

Disagreements with Management

For the purposes of this letter, a disagreement with management is a financial accounting, reporting, or auditing matter, whether or not resolved to our satisfaction, that could be significant to the financial statements or the auditor's report. We are pleased to report that no such disagreements arose during the course of our audit.

Management Representations

We have requested certain representations from management that are included in the management representation letter dated March 27, 2024.

Management Consultation with Other Independent Accountants

In some cases, management may decide to consult with other accountants about auditing and accounting matters, similar to obtaining a "second opinion" on certain situations. If a consultation involves application of an accounting principle to the Corporation's financial statements or a determination of the type of auditor's opinion that may be expressed on those statements, our professional standards require the consulting accountant to check with us to determine that the consultant has all the relevant facts. To our knowledge, there were no such consultations with other accountants.

Other Audit Findings or Issues

We generally discuss a variety of matters, including the application of accounting principles and auditing standards, with management each year prior to retention as the Corporation's auditors. However, these discussions occurred in the normal course of our professional relationship and our responses were not a condition to our retention.

Other Matters

Management has omitted the management's discussion and analysis information that accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America require to be presented to supplement the basic financial statements. Such missing information, although not part of the basic financial statements, is required by the Governmental Accounting Standards Board who considers it to be an essential part of financial reporting for placing the basic financial statements in an appropriate operational, economic, or historical context. Our opinion on the basic financial statements is not affected by this missing information.

We were engaged to report on the Schedule of Indebtedness which accompany the financial statements but are not RSI. With respect to this supplementary information, we made certain inquiries of management and evaluated the form, content, and methods of preparing the information to determine that the information complies with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America, the method of preparing it has not changed from the prior period, and the information is appropriate and complete in relation to our audit of the financial statements. We compared and reconciled the supplementary information to the underlying accounting records and other records used to prepare the financial statements or to the financial statements themselves.

We were not engaged to report on the Agency's annual report that is defined by Section 2800 of the New York State Public Authorities Law, Annual Reports by Authorities. Our responsibility under professional standards is to consider whether a material inconsistency exists between the annual report and the audited financial statements that includes our report thereon. The annual report has not been subjected to the auditing procedures applied to the audit of the basic financial statements, and accordingly, we do not express an opinion or provide any assurance on it.

Restriction on Use

This information is intended solely for the information and use of the Board of Directors and management of the Corporation and is not intended to be, and should not be, used by anyone other than these specified parties.

Very truly yours,

Wojeski & Company, CPAs, P.C.
